

This book began my reading adventures in the lands of Middle Earth. I found this book very exciting and felt transported to this fantasy world as I read. It is filled with interesting characters (some good and some very bad) many with magical abilities. For me this book was one adventure after the next!

I loved that the four main characters who were sisters, were very different.

Meg was beautiful and kind and Jo was a great writer with a wonderful imagination.

My two favourites though, were Amy who was an artist and Beth, who was really good at playing the piano!

This book is about the discovery of a wonderful secret garden which eventually transforms the lives of the main characters; Mary, Colin, Dickon and Ben as they learn about the beauty of the world around them, their friendships and families and how happiness can be found in the simplest of things

I really enjoyed reading this book as I have always been a big fan of U2, ever since hearing The Joshua Tree album. I have had the pleasure of seeing U2 on numerous occasions, I even went abroad to see them. I particularly enjoyed reading all about Bono's life growing up in Dublin and how he got the inspiration to write so many of the U2 songs.

I remember first reading this book when I was younger and was fascinated by the colourful characters and unique world that Alice encounters when she falls down the rabbit hole. I loved all the weird and wonderful characters that she meets, and I have a new favourite any time I have read it.

I love this story because it is so many things at once. It's a fantasy tale, an adventure story and a thriller. There are happy, sad and scary moments and it's so cleverly put together that every time I read the book I get something new from it. I find myself wanting to be in the story.

This book has got to be one of my favourites! This book made me laugh out loud. Some of the characters are so irresponsible and end up in tricky situations. I love stories which have happy endings, and this book has a great ending.

I loved all of these books because Pippi was the strongest girl in the world, she was kind and funny. She lived on her own in a beautiful house in the forest with her pet monkey and beautiful horse. She was very different from other girls and did most things back the front. She was very, very happy!
